Professional History

Sarah joined Holmes Dyer in 2016 experienced in public sector administration and management.

Prior to this, Sarah provided strategy and performance advice to the South Australian Environment Protection Authority.

Sarah has lead local government strategic and business outcomes and performance improvement over a 10 year period including with the City of Port Adelaide Enfield and Campbelltown City Council. She concluded her time in local government as a Director with the City of Mitcham in 2010.

Sarah has a strong grounding in environmental planning and systems management and started her career working on environmental projects partnering across tiers of government.

Experience

Sarah has been involved in diverse areas of strategy, policy planning and project implementation including for open space, community land, stormwater management, waste management, water and energy efficiency, biodiversity, domestic animals, climate mitigation and adaptation, community facilities and cultural precincts.

Sarah has worked across organisations, with partners and the community to lead the development of integrated strategy and for the application of principles of ecologically sustainable development.

Project examples include:

- Statutory review and preparation of local government Strategic Management Plans.
- Sustainability assessment and attraction of grant funding for public place making at the Mitcham Cultural Village.
- Strategic review and implementation of new kerbside waste management arrangements for local government.
- Preparation of community land management plans in accord with the Local Government Act 1999.

Sarah is future focussed and can successfully plan and drive change.
